APPENDIX A SUPPLEMENTAL QUESTIONNAIRE

You must complete this supplement to the State of Hawai'i Permit to Acquire Firearms Application if you answered "yes" to Question 18, indicating that you have been diagnosed with or treated for a behavioral, psychological, emotional, or mental condition or disorder. Under Hawai'i law, not every behavioral, psychological, emotional, or mental condition or disorder will result in a denial of this application. Additional information is necessary to enable the issuing authority to determine whether you have a "medical, behavioral, psychological, emotional, or mental condition or disorder that causes or is likely to cause impairment in judgment, perception, or impulse control to an extent that presents an unreasonable risk to public health, safety, or welfare if the person were in possession or control of a firearm[.]" HRS §134-7(c)(3).

Additionally—even if an applicant has been previously treated for, or previously diagnosed with, a medical, behavioral, psychological, emotional, or mental condition or disorder that causes or is likely to cause impairment in judgment, perception, or impulse control to an extent that presents an unreasonable risk to public health, safety, or welfare if the person were in possession or control of a firearm—an applicant can establish, with appropriate medical documentation, that the person is "no longer adversely affected by" the condition or disorder, HRS §134-7(c), which means that the condition or disorder has been controlled and that the applicant no longer presents an unreasonable risk to public health, safety, or welfare if in possession or control of a firearm.

The following questions are intended to allow the issuing authority to determine whether you meet the relevant statutory criteria to own, possess, or control a firearm and ammunition, and will not be used for any other purpose. Truthful responses will be kept confidential unless disclosure is required or permitted by law.

We recognize the critical importance of mental health and advocate proactive management of mental health conditions to support wellness and recovery. While most individuals with mental health conditions do not present risks to themselves or others, there may be times when such a condition can affect a person's eligibility to own, possess, or control a firearm or ammunition. Nothing in this supplemental questionnaire is intended to discourage those who might benefit from such treatment from seeking it. Having sought or received mental health care for personal wellness and recovery may contribute favorably to decisions about your eligibility.

1. What behavioral, psychological, emotional, or mental conditions or disorders have you been diagnosed with or treated for?

2. Approximately when were you diagnosed with or treated for each of these conditions or disorders?

4. Please state in detail any symptoms you have experienced as a result of the conditions or disorders identified in your response to question 1 above. Please also state when you last experienced symptoms.

5. Please state in detail any treatment or medications you have received or taken in the previous five (5) years to treat or manage the conditions or disorders identified in your response to question 1.

If you answered "yes" to questions 6, 7, 8, or 9, please describe: (1) the circumstances that led you to answer "yes," (2) how the situation evolved and when it was resolved, if at all, and; (3) whether you would pose a danger to yourself or others if in possession of firearms or ammunition, and if not, why you believe you would not pose such a danger. You may attach any supporting documents to this form. You may also provide any additional information that you believe the issuing authority should be aware of in connection with your application, or that you believe may be relevant to your application.

HRS § 134-17 Penalties. (a) If any person intentionally, knowingly, or recklessly makes any materially false, fictitious, or fraudulent statement or representation in connection with any of the requirements of this part, that person shall be guilty of a misdemeanor; provided that if any person intentionally, knowingly, or recklessly makes any materially false, fictitious, or fraudulent statement or representation regarding the person's psychiatric or criminal history in connection with any of the requirements of this part, that person shall be guilty of a class C felony.
